Pete Naugle is an associate at Goodell DeVries and a member of the firm's Appellate Practice Group. He represents clients at all stages of the appellate process and works alongside trial teams to develop legal strategy, brief key pre-trial motions, and ensure that complex litigation is well-positioned for both trial success and potential appellate review.

Pete brings significant appellate practice experience. Before joining the firm, he was an Assistant Attorney General with the Maryland Office of the Attorney General's Criminal Appeals Division. During his years of government service, Pete represented the State in hundreds of appeals before the Appellate Court of Maryland and eleven times before the Supreme Court of Maryland. He also served as Judicial Law Clerk to two judges of the Appellate Court of Maryland.
